

Arroyo Artists' Collective to Hold Open Studio Showcase Sculptor Sukhdev Dail will donate a portion of the proceeds from sales of his art to Laguna Greenbelt, Inc.

Sukhdev Dail, a well-known artist, sculptor, and philanthropist, who has lived and worked in Laguna for 30 years, announces the debut of his new studio, in situ, on Arroyo Drive. A longtime dream of Dail's, the studio will be open to the public December 10th. Collaborating with four other resident artists on Arroyo Drive, the group comes together as the Arroyo Artists' Collective. This is the first of a series of open studio events for Dail. Dail will donate a portion of the proceeds from this sale to Laguna Greenbelt, Inc. in support of its environmental conservation projects.

Sharing the genesis for the open studio event, Dail said, "I wanted to have the feeling of the more informal way artists interact with the community, going back to the seventies when I first came to Laguna. This street is an enclave of creativity, and we support each other as neighbors and artists."

Inspired by nature and their surroundings the Arroyo Artists' Collective interprets five elements of the Universe: fire, wood, earth, water, and metal in their various practices. Sukhdev Dail sculpts with bronze, steel, and concrete; Siân Poeschl focuses on glass, Troy Poeschl is devoted to photography, while both Monica Prado and Sandy Groves work with clay.

Dail's work is currently at New Masters Gallery in Carmel and Nikko Gallery in Palm Desert. A long-time resident artist in Laguna Beach, Dali's statue, "Seabreeze," a figure holding aloft a canopy of colored glass, was installed at a Main Beach overlook in Heisler Park adjacent to the Inn at Laguna Beach. <https://mail.sukhdevdail.com/Site/Home.html>
